

Khums on the amount saved for buying life expenses

9 /Jan/ 2017

Q: Does khums apply to the money saved gradually intending to buy a house or other life necessities?

A: If, according to the financial status of the person, buying their life necessities depends on saving annual earnings and they decide to spend these savings to purchase such things in the near future (i.e. within several days), it is not subject to khums.