

Nation follows Islam wholeheartedly - 9 /Sep/ 2008

Islamic Revolution Leader Ayatollah Sayyed Ali Khamenei said the global arrogance treats the Iranian nation with acrimony because the nation's Islamic system runs counter to their worldwide domineering policies.

"Global arrogance knows the Islamic System well. At the same time, the Islamic System has well tracked down the bloody claws of the arrogance under velvet cover. The face-off then is natural," Ayatollah Khamenei told authorities Tuesday evening.

Ayatollah Khamenei noted the western media's brawls over the Islamic rules and regulations which are applied in the Iranian system of government, adding however that the Iranian authorities would continue to follow the principles of Islam and the revolution.

In the same regard, Ayatollah Khamenei criticized those who seek to undermine the revolutionary principles in the guise of call to rationality and moderation, adding, "They are fed up with the Islamic principles unlike the will of people however they claim the public is tired too."

Ayatollah Khamenei noted that adherence to the revolutionary platform never hinders the country's progress despite an enemy effort to insinuate an otherwise trend.

Ayatollah Khamenei said the pessimists who downplay the post-revolutionary achievements were insulting the nation, adding that even thirty years after the revolution, the nation continues to honor the revolutionary mottoes. "There are many young artists who never saw the time of Imam or war but they appreciate the great movement of the nation in their works of art."

Ayatollah Khamenei however instructed the executive authorities to avoid immoderation in adopting any macro policies, adding that the three branches of power must join forces in such economic issues as the Article 44 General Policies and the Economic Overhaul Plan.
