He highlighted the harmony between laws and the principles of the Islamic Revolution from one side and taking into consideration urgent and long-term needs of the people from the other side. If these elements considered, the law would be sufficient.

Ayatollah Khamenei added that if the law lacks the harmony with the principles of the Islamic Revolution it would lose its credibility and if it does not accord with the people's needs, so it would not accepted by the people.

The IR Leader highlighted the principles of the Islamic Revolution and said the late Imam Khomeini was a great and aware person and his guidelines and last will are the principles of the Islamic Revolution. Approval of the laws and statements should be in this direction.
