Islamic movement will bring about global change - 15 /Feb/ 2012

Leader of the Islamic Revolution Ayatollah Sayyed Ali Khamenei says a sweeping Islamic movement with Iran at its epicenter will ultimately eliminate the domineering materialistic policies of the arrogant powers.

Speaking to a gathering of Iranian people of the northwestern province of East Azerbaijan in the capital, Tehran, Ayatollah Khamenei referred to the developments across the North African states and the Arab world, and noted that the people in these nations are echoing the same slogans as the Iranian nation used to chant under monarchical repression.

Leader of the Islamic Revolution pointed out that the Islamic Republic of Iran, which basically initiated such a widespread Islamic movement in the region and beyond, will continue on its path.

Ayatollah Khamenei further maintained that Islam has reached a turning point in its immense movement forward, which will bring about highly significant changes in the world and terminate the existing hegemonic power structures.

Leader of the Islamic Revolution said that the resistance of the Iranian nation has played a major role in the success and great achievements of the Islamic establishment.

He added that a nation will achieve success in the fields of science and technology, economy, social issues and international policies when it has no fear of the enemy's pompous approaches.

Ayatollah Khamenei emphasized that Iran would turn into a "successful and advanced model" for the Muslim world through the resistance of the Iranian nation and particularly the youth.

The Leader warned that arrogant powers and their puppets have launched broad propaganda and media campaigns against Iran's parliamentary elections due to be held on March 2.

"Everyone should know that a high turnout of the Iranian people in the elections would lead to the country's promotion, and raise doubts for the enemy before hatching plots; it will also make the enemy retreat," Ayatollah Khamenei said.

Islamic Revolution Leader reiterated that the massive participation of the people in the upcoming elections will deal a heavy blow to the enemy.
